

Is your ACO due for a checkup?

Organizations have dedicated precious time and resources building infrastructure and management capability in their ACOs. How well is your ACO doing?

While many ACOs are realizing both cost savings and improved quality of care for their patient population, others have hit stumbling blocks and challenges. This is hardly a surprise; transformation of this magnitude requires continued monitoring and evolution to ensure success in a changing environment. Here are some indicators of ACOs that are due for a “checkup:”

- Inability to generate savings
- Failing to satisfactorily meet quality metrics established in those contracts
- Physician and/or staff frustration with an inefficient care model
- Uncertainty about the required data analytic tools

GE Healthcare Camden Group's ACO Checkup is a focused, comprehensive assessment of the performance of your clinically integrated network or ACO. Our ACO experts will evaluate your current operations for effectiveness, efficiency, and value to improve the performance of your ACO. Our proven process identifies best practices, organizational bright spots, and areas of improvement in eight component areas:

Our process is personalized, targeted, driven by quantitative and qualitative data analytics, and tailored to the needs of each unique ACO. We can customize the assessment for you and assess only the components you need. Our accountable care experts will delve into the operations of the ACO through comprehensive data and report reviews, meeting participation, application of Lean tools, and ongoing communication and feedback with ACO leadership to provide you with results and an action plan that can drive change and improved performance for your ACO.
